Expertise

Insight Investment is one the of UK's largest active fixed income managers. This success is attributable to a range of industry-leading processes which target the most attractive risk-adjusted returns from a broad range of opportunities and over a variety of time horizons and market conditions.

Our fixed income team's success has resulted in a considerable increase in assets under management. We have an established presence in the UK pensions market and continue to launch innovative new solutions and develop tailored specialist bond mandates.

Investment philosophy

We aim to provide clients with consistent outperformance. We believe that the most effective way to do this is through a combination of precision and diversification.

Precision means that our portfolios target precise opportunities. All bonds have a number of risk components. We assess these risks separately to identify mispricings, targeting those risks that offer attractive returns, while eliminating unintended and unwanted risks.

Diversification means a willingness and ability to find a broad range of uncorrelated opportunities rather than focusing on a particular source of return. Our fund managers seek to add value through the active management of risk and return across a range of factors such as market allocation, duration and yield curve management, credit strategy, foreign currency and security selection.

Precision Targeting investments + Diversification Spreading investments = Consistent performance

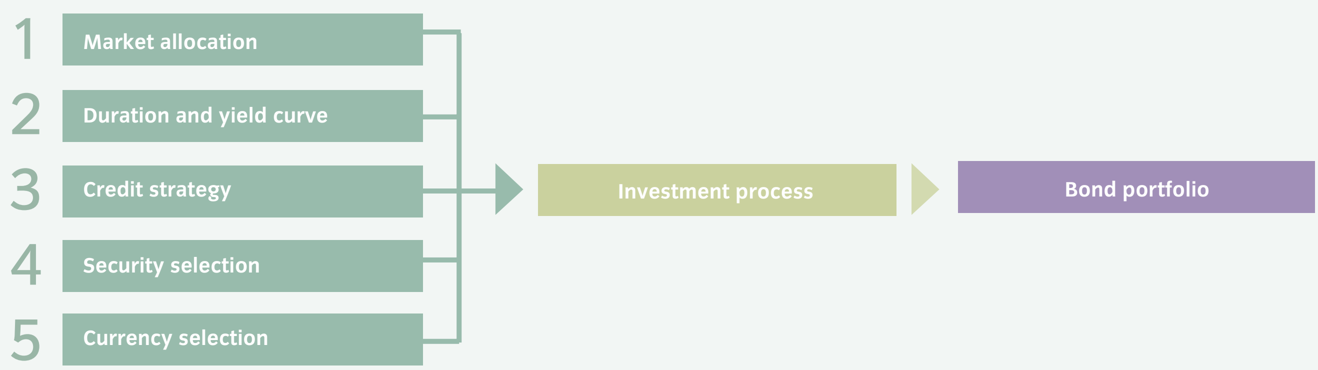
Precision and diversification are not new concepts, but we believe that the way in which we combine and apply these is a unique and repeatable approach that has proven results.

Our investment process aims to target returns from a wide range of sources. To produce consistent returns our process must be flexible enough to cope with different points in the economic cycle and different market conditions.

We focus on risk as much as return and organise our team in specialist units to constantly identify a variety of investment opportunities. By doing so, we are able to construct portfolios that have sound risk-adjusted performance.

Fixed income investment process:

Five areas of our investment process:



Market allocation, duration and yield curve

As part of our overall research process, portfolio managers look at macroeconomic and microeconomic influences on interest rates, government bonds, inflation-linked bonds and corporate bonds. Credit sectors and individual securities are analysed by our in-house credit analyst team. Around 85% of the team's research is generated internally. All research emphasises the risk as well as opportunities of each potential position.

Market allocation, duration and yield curve positioning have historically been strong drivers of returns for our government and aggregate bond portfolios, and would typically be expected to deliver around half of the overall performance target. Market allocation uses portfolio manager research to take views on different markets according to our views on the global and local economies, and markets. This means taking a view on the attractiveness or otherwise of inflation-linked bonds as well as overseas government bonds.

The timescale of our investment process is both strategic and tactical. The strategic element is based on our long-term expectations for the relevant bond market, based primarily on fundamental economic analysis. We also look at short-term, tactical considerations such as the possible impact of bond auctions or technical factors. Finally, we incorporate a proprietary momentum model designed to capture strong trends within markets.

Credit strategy

Credit managers have the flexibility to increase or reduce risk budget allocations depending on economic factors and the attractiveness of credit markets. Within credit markets, we also allocate to different parts of the market or corporate capital structures and generate views on desired portfolio beta.

Security selection

Our credit analyst team is one of the largest in-house teams in the UK. We cover pan European and global cap investment grade, high yield and asset-backed securities as well as emerging market debt.

The selection of individual securities is a key source of added value within both government and non-government investment. Using proprietary measures of yield and price movements for securities relative to others of similar maturity, we are able to add value through conventional and index-linked security selection.

Within corporate bonds we apply a quantitative filtering system to identify securities which have the greatest potential to add to investment returns. Those securities are researched both via detailed company research and through analysis of market value. Only attractive opportunities at the right level of valuation are included in our client portfolios.

Currency selection

We believe that where possible, management of underlying bond assets should be separated from the management of the total currency exposure. The strength and sophistication of our dealing, settlement and risk systems allows us to use various instruments to ensure that the portfolio currency exposure is not dependent on the currency exposure of the underlying assets.

For portfolios that allow it, we put in place active currency overlays. Our currency strategies are derived from a philosophy that currencies in the larger currency blocs are driven by relative monetary policy. Trends in these policies tend to be slow and long-lasting, creating slow and long-lasting currency moves. However, in the short term, these trends can be outweighed by other factors. We therefore also look at cyclical demand dynamics and non-macroeconomic influences such as sentiment, momentum and skew in the options markets.

Risk management

Understanding and measuring risk in any portfolio is a key factor in producing consistent performance. Depending on the client's mandate, we allocate risk across the various sources of return. We do this by using a proprietary system called Units of Risk. This approach allows us to consider risk both on a stand-alone basis as well as in terms of overall portfolio effects.

Effective risk management is a strategic objective at Insight. We believe that our risk systems are among the most sophisticated and rigorous in the industry. Our systems are capable of measuring risk on the full range of investment instruments, including swaps and other derivatives, allowing proper assessment of the most complex types of portfolios. The systems are flexible enough to carry out live daily comparisons with any benchmark, allowing the building of tailored client investment solutions where appropriate.

Strategies and performance

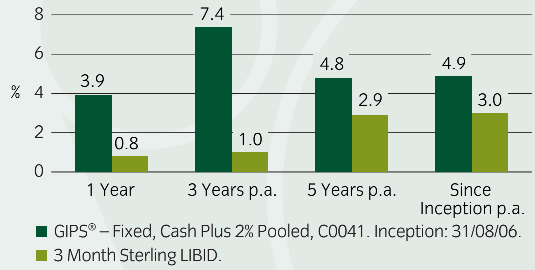
Please find below a selection of our UK strategies:

Bonds Plus

- This is a 'best ideas', absolute return strategy investing in both government and corporate bonds. The strategy also takes positions in high yield, emerging market debt and currencies to enhance returns.

Bonds Plus Composite

Performance in GBP terms 31/10/11

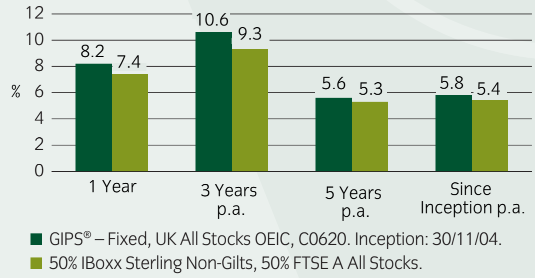


UK Aggregate Bonds

- This strategy typically has a mix of gilts, corporates and index-linked bonds and may also invest in high yield, emerging market debt and currencies as a way of boosting returns and increasing diversification.

UK Aggregate Bonds Composite

Performance in GBP terms 31/10/11



UK Government All Maturities Bonds

- This strategy involves the construction of a portfolio which contains a wide spectrum of UK gilts of all maturities with additional investments where opportunities to add value are identified, such as index-linked bonds or overseas government bonds. Typically, the majority of outperformance comes from gilt risk (duration and yield curve).
